Impeachment Trial at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Ill., Nov. 26.—The Longworth trial is progressing, after the interruption caused by the illness of Judge Drummond. Only unimportant testimony was given to-day.

A personal meeting of the Democracy of the city was convened, and the Presidency of Alderman Wentworth was elected to the chair. Mr. Wentworth, in a few appropriate remarks, announced the object of the meeting, which was to nominate candidates for Aldermen and Supervisors. On motion, the Chair appointed a committee of one from each ward to report candidates for the above offices. The committee retired, and after a short absence reported the following ticket, which was unanimously adopted:

Supervisor, H. P. Kinsley.
Aldermen—First ward, Thomas Hoyne; Second ward, Wm. Bross; Third ward, Wm. Ogden; Fourth ward, Wm. Wentworth; Fifth ward, Wm. Bradley; Sixth ward, Wm. Bross; Seventh ward, Wm. Ogden; Eighth ward, Wm. Wentworth; Ninth ward, Wm. Bradley; Tenth ward, Wm. Bross; Eleventh ward, Wm. Ogden; Twelfth ward, Wm. Wentworth; Thirteenth ward, Wm. Bradley; Fourteenth ward, Wm. Bross; Fifteenth ward, Wm. Ogden; Sixteenth ward, Wm. Wentworth; Seventeenth ward, Wm. Bradley; Eighteenth ward, Wm. Bross; Nineteenth ward, Wm. Ogden; Twentieth ward, Wm. Wentworth.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
PROSPECTUS
OF THE
CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
The Great Radical Republican Newspaper of the West.
ITS PLATFORM:
REVENUE TARIFF,
CIVIL SERVICE REFORM,
OPPOSITION TO MONOPOLIES.
The Chicago Tribune comes upon the coming year of its existence with the record of over 23 years of continuous publication. For a quarter of a century it has been devoted to the principles of the Republican party. It recognizes the fact that the war has left many issues of great importance to the country. Slavery being dead, reconstruction accomplished, and the right of suffrage established, it is the duty of the Republican party to deal with the questions of finance, and, whether possible or not, to secure a return to specie payments. It is in favor of a Revenue Tariff, and opposed to the present system of taxation, which is a premium on idleness and a penalty on industry and economy in their operation.
It is in favor of a thorough reform in the civil service of the government, believing that the best interests of the country require the appointment of competent, honest, and experienced men to a brief term of service, and the removal of incumbents on a fair and reasonable notice. It is opposed to all monopolies, whether in the form of railroad corporations, gold rings, or the combinations of the money power to oppress the people. It believes that every citizen has a right to the fruits of his own labor, and that it is equally the duty of the government to protect the poor man in his cabin and the rich man in his palace.
It is in favor of a currency, just, and peaceful in its origin and use. While insisting upon the right to use as a medium of exchange the paper issues of the country, it will oppose every effort to depreciate the currency, from a foreign or a domestic standard.
Finally, The Tribune is opposed to all special measures which are unfavorable to the general welfare, to the unrelated liberty of prosecution in the pursuit of happiness, and final justice to all men. It proposes to maintain the position, which it has ever held, of the champion of the People.

"RIDING" RAILWAY RECEIPTS.

The question of consolidating the local railways centering in Chicago is one of no little importance to the country to an extent only surpassed by the consolidation of land in England. Public opinion there has been insistent, if not strong-minded, in the consolidation of railways here as it has sustained the consolidation of land there.

But it is certainly worthy of note that the land is parcelled out to about 1,000 men, and that half of all the land in the Kingdom. It remains to be seen whether public opinion in this country will continue to permit one-half the railways of the country to be controlled by five or ten men.

The chief incidental benefit of the consolidation of roads is found in the agreement of the three railway lines carrying freight between Chicago and Council Bluffs, to pool their earnings on through freight between those two points and divide them in equal parts. Does it need any argument to show that this agreement is in violation of the principles of competition, as well as contrary to the interests of the public and shippers?

Yet it is a fact that the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the "other" of the three roads, the railway officers, in very likely to be adopted by the three East and West trunk lines reaching between Chicago and New York, representatives, with their managers, met at 10,000 miles of track, and came to an agreement to pool freights. Indeed, it was proposed that the Erie and Central Railways last summer, at the very time when there was work carrying freight, the length of which was 1,000 miles, for a dollar a car, and the other for one cent per hundred weight."

The proposition to pool the aggregate receipts of the two roads was a breach of trust not dangerous even for New York railway managers, but it is a fact that the Chicago roads have been so educated at the hands of the Western railway managers that they have not yet learned to appreciate the enormity of the offense. Their managers should be sent to Sing Sing for the term of their natural lives, and their property confiscated to the use of the State. Such is the penalty in Illinois; whether Tombeen Ill should be protected the rights of the public against railway corporations, and the stockholders of the railways themselves against the capacity of their officers. Many efforts but fail the way in which the railway administrators have been less serious than they should have been for more total. Properly and wisely directed. One of the best means of these improvements is to have new lines of railway projected, and the State Railroad Bill, if it could certainly passed, by any majority, in favor of the State Government, when it is to be hoped that it will be followed by private legislation to prevent that, even again, and that hence those corporations and their officers will practically be restricted by the law as it does now to the law applied to them.

THE SOUTH SIDE CANAL.

The meeting of the Association for the Improvement of the Illinois River, held in the Council Chamber last night, was called to order by the President, Gen. Thomas J. Turner, who stated the object of the meeting to be to consider the subject of the Lake and River Canal, and the best means of securing its completion. He then introduced Mr. Charles Randolph, Chief Engineer of the Illinois & Michigan Canal, who read a report of the survey and estimates of the proposed canal, which was referred to the Committee on Finance. The report estimates the cost of the canal at $3,000,000, and the time required for its completion at three years. It is proposed to make the canal 160 feet wide at the surface, 100 feet at the bottom, and 10 feet deep. The estimate of cost includes the cost of the right of way, and the construction of 12 bridges, 2 aqueducts, and 2 locks. The report also

A TALE OF DICKENS.

Singular Visit of a Murderer—His Victim Became a Gentleman Who Holds a High Office.

A Gentleman in Louisville, communicates, according to the Commercial, of that city:

During the first visit of Mr. Dickens to this country, I had the pleasure of meeting him frequently in the parlors of the building of the Astor House, where I was then residing. Among the distinguished persons to whom I was introduced was the late Governor Seward, who, at that time, was the first of the cabinet ministers of the Administration of Mr. Polk, now President elect. A conversation was suggested, by the chance to present to Mr. Dickens, Mr. Johnston, one of the most distinguished citizens of Louisville, and one of the first of the early settlers of the State of Kentucky. Mr. Johnston was the father of the late Albert Sidney Johnston, who fell in the battle of Shiloh. At the period of the visit of Mr. Dickens to this country, I had not the honor of being personally known to Mr. Johnston, but I had been told by my father, who was a friend of his, that he was one of the most remarkable men of the State, and that he had been a prisoner among the Indians for several years. He was one of those who fell into the hands of the savages in the early settlement of the State, and was carried off to the Indian country, and was compelled to remain with them for several years. He was one of the first white men who ever visited the Falls of the Ohio, and was one of the party who, in 1779, built the first block-house on the site of the present city of Louisville. He was also one of the first settlers of Harrodsburg, the first town built in Kentucky. He was a man of great courage, and was a leader in the Indian wars which followed the settlement of the country. He was a man of great size and strength, and was remarkable for his coolness and self-possession in the midst of danger. He was a man of few words, and was not much given to conversation, except with his friends. He was a man of great firmness of character, and was universally respected for his many virtues.

I had frequently heard my father speak of the adventure of Mr. Johnston with the Indians, and I was very desirous that Mr. Dickens should hear the story from his own lips. I therefore invited him to meet Mr. Johnston at dinner, and requested the latter gentleman to relate the circumstances of his captivity among the Indians. Mr. Johnston consented, and related the story substantially as follows:

"I was one of the party who went down the Ohio River in the spring of 1779, to build the first block-house on the site of the present city of Louisville. We landed at the Falls, and commenced the work of erecting the block-house. While we were thus employed, we were surprised by a party of Indians, who rushed upon us from the bushes, and before we could defend ourselves, they had killed several of our party, and had taken the rest prisoners. I was one of the latter number. They then plundered us of our arms and ammunition, and commenced their march with us into the Indian country. We were compelled to travel very rapidly. We were often compelled to wade through streams, and were driven on in this manner for several days. We had no food during the whole time, and were nearly famished. The Indians, however, were quite well supplied with provisions, and would frequently halt and kill game for food. We were always compelled to run the gauntlet when we arrived at any of their villages. This consisted in being driven between two lines of Indians, who were armed with clubs, with which they struck us as we passed between them. Many of our party were killed in this manner. I was fortunate enough to escape with only a few severe bruises. We were finally taken to the Indian town of Chillicothe, on the Scioto River. Upon arriving there, I was informed that I was to be given to a squaw to supply the place of a son she had lost in battle. I was then taken to the lodge of the squaw, and was informed that I was to be her son. I was treated with great kindness by her and her family, and soon became a favorite with the whole village. I was adopted into the tribe, and was considered as one of the family. I was soon enabled to speak the Indian language fluently, and was treated with the utmost confidence by the Indians. I was frequently left in charge of the village, when the warriors were absent on their hunting excursions. I was also frequently sent with messages to the neighboring villages. I was finally sent to the Indian town on the Little Miami River, where I remained for some time. I was then sent to the Indian town on the site of the present city of Cincinnati, where I remained for several months. I was then sent to the Indian town on the Great Miami River, where I remained for some time. I was then sent to the Indian town on the site of the present city of Dayton, where I remained for several months.
